LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Scandinavian Airlines jet splashed into the rainswept Pacific Ocean while attempting a landing at International Airport Monday night—and floated.

Of the 45 aboard, there were 30 known survivors and 4 known dead, SAS listed 9 of the remaining 11 as missing, the others as unaccounted for.

Santa Monica Hospital, near the airport, reported treating 24 persons and said all were in good condition.

As dawn broke over the Pacific, wreckage of the big DC8 still was floating—almost 12 hours after it came down into two-foot swells eight miles off shore.

In a scene of pandemonium, passengers and crew members scrambled into rubber boats or atop the wings and fuselage. Some tumbled into the sea.

Sped To Shore

An armada of small boats—Coast Guard cutters, life guard craft, and a volunteer fleet of private yachts and motor boats—conducted a search and rescue operation that lasted for hours.

Rescue boats plucked survivors from the waves or the plane, sped them ashore to ambulances that took them to the hospital.

During the night, divers determined that no bodies were inside the plane.

The jetliner, on a flight across the North Pole from Copenhagen via Seattle, Wash., hit the water with no warning, passengers said.

Due at 6:05 p.m., the jetliner had circled in the airport landing pattern for some 90 minutes due to a bad weather buildup of planes, then began its approach. It vanished from the radar screen at 7:40.

Routine Approach

Pilot Kenneth Davis, an Englishman living in Sweden, said he made a "routine approach except for some difficulty with the landing gear."

He declined to give details, but commended his crew and the passengers for "totally heroic and disciplined action" in evacuating the plane and launching rubber boats.

The floating was "a miracle" to one coast guardman. Another called it "kind of miraculous" the pilot "was able to keep the ship in one piece, landing in two-foot waves and darkness."

Mats Hellstrom, 30, engineer from Vasteras, Sweden, said passengers were told to fasten seat belts and "The next thing I knew we hit the water."

"People were screaming for help. I had trouble getting out of my seat belt, but then I got through a rip in the fuselage and was in the water."

On Honeymoon

Hellstrom said he grabbed a floatation belt and was in the water an hour before rescue—with a broken leg and cut lip.

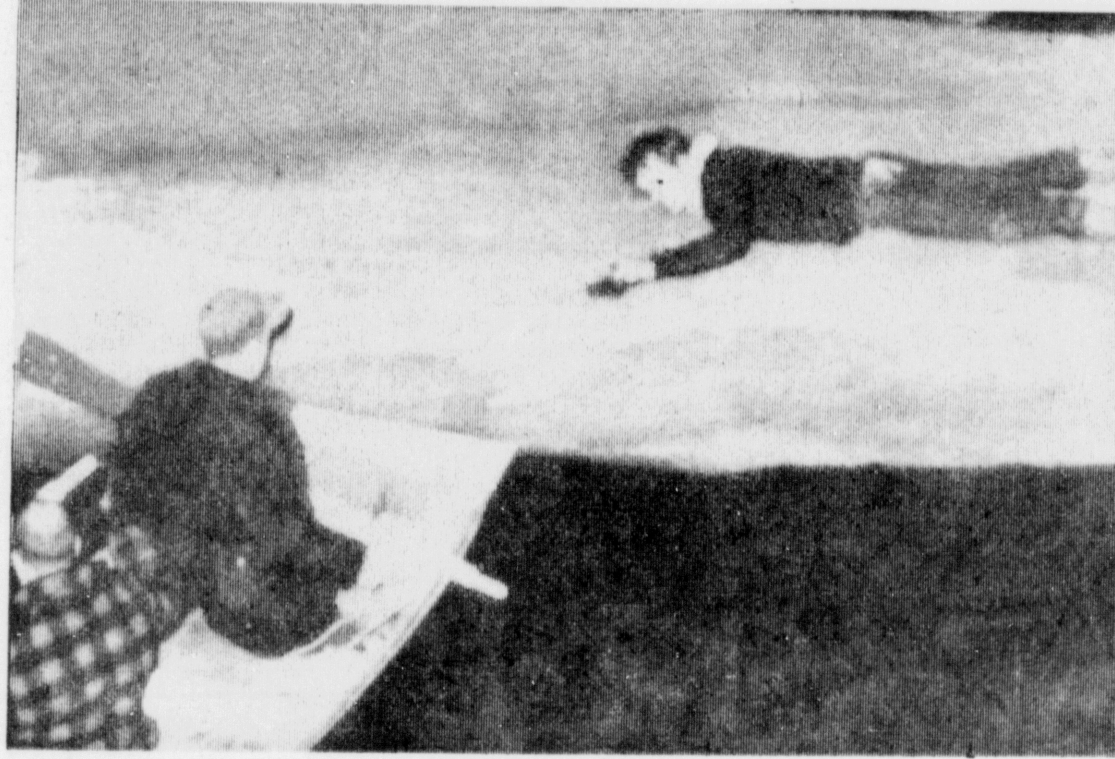

Olev Anderson, who said he was an off-duty Scandinavian Airlines System pilot from Copenhagen and on his honeymoon, was asleep when he felt what he thought was a "hard landing."

"I looked around and realized it was a little more. Seats were thrown all over the cabin. Water started to flood in.

"I was sitting right behind the emergency door over the wing. I opened it, put on a life preserver, and began hauling people out on the wing."

"Some children were screaming, but there really wasn't any panic. The rescue operation was very efficient."

"We got into a life raft but it had a hole and sank. We all jumped into the water and swam to a second raft."

DENNIS R. BASNEY lies on the ice of Black River as rescuers Chief Ed DeBell (nearest Basney) and Fireman Earl Fenner of the Port Huron Township Fire Department inch their boat toward him. Basney, 24, awaited rescue for an hour after the snowmobile on which he was riding with Duane E. Barnes, 37, broke through the ice, drowning Barnes, Saturday night. Basney's cries for help were heard by a nearby resident who called police. (AP Wirephoto)

Interior Sec'y Designate Cites Record

Hickel Fires Back At Conservationists

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect Nixon's choice for secretary of interior, Walter J. Hickel, has taken the offensive against his critics, circulating a defense of his conservation record before facing a Senate committee where his foes can have the first, and last, word.

The Republican governor of Alaska, only man chosen for Nixon's cabinet to encounter opposition, won't be called before the Senate Interior Committee until Wednesday. But his temporary Washington office, trying to counter suspicion that Hickel is opposed to some conservation practices, issued a bulky report that detailed a long list of accomplishments in protecting natural resources and wildlife.

Nixon To Aid?

There were hints, too, that Nixon was coming to the aid of his nominee. Word was circulating in Capitol Hill that the president-elect would name Russell E. Train, 48-year-old head of the Conservation Foundation, as Hickel's undersecretary. Train is among the nation's foremost conservationists, and his appointment would weaken Hickel's opponents.

The first of the men who will make up the new cabinet begin testifying today before Senate committees, and all can expect to be recommended, rapidly and routinely, for confirmation by the full Senate.

Packard Questioned

But one sub-cabinet appointee, multimillionaire industrialist David Packard, probably will undergo close questioning by the Armed Services Committee about his plan to retain stock worth $300 million in his defense-oriented company.

Since 1947, the Senate has required top Pentagon officials to divest themselves of all stock in companies handling defense business. Packard's stock is in Hewlett-Packard Co., an electronics firm which handles 370 million a year in Pentagon projects. But Packard has refused to sell the stock on the ground that offering such a huge block on the market would sharply depress the price and hurt other stockholders. Instead, he proposes to put the stock in trust with all income to go for charity while he is in office.

To Be Confirmed

There's little chance that Packard will be denied confirmation. Opposition has all but died away since Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he did not see why appointed officials should be required to sell their business holdings so long as Congress didn't force their own members to do so.

Opposition to Hickel's appointment flared into the open last Dec. 18, when he held a "get-acquainted" news conference, and suggested that such practices as blocking development of mineral resources on public lands, or setting water quality standards so high that industrial development was retarded, were open to question.

Oil Is Stake

The opinions, plus Hickel's observation that the domestic oil industry must be helped, forged an alliance of western and New England senators determined to demand, in effect, assurance that Hickel won't tamper with some pet projects.

For example, the New England group, including Democrat Edward M. Kennedy and Republican Edward Brooke, fear that Hickel has become too friendly with major oil companies in his drive to develop Alaska's North Slope field, and may be inclined to block plans for a large oil refinery in Maine. The big oil companies are opposed to the plan, which will require both a free trade zone—so the refinery can process Libyan oil—and a share of the oil import quotas. As head of the Interior Department, Hickel will have control over oil imports.

The Western senators, led by Democrats Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Lee Metcalf of Montana, are more concerned with Hickel's position of uses of public lands and conservation of natural resources.

Seaborne Assault Is Largest Since Korea

BATANGAN PENINSULA, Vietnam (AP)—Two battalions of U. S. Marines stormed ashore here in the biggest seaborne assault since the Korean War.

They were the first units of an 8,200-man allied force ordered to smash a longtime enemy sanctuary, spokesmen announced today.

The Marines landed Monday 340 miles northeast of Saigon at the scene of the first major American battle of the Vietnam War in August 1965, also a seaborne assault, it left 15 leather-necks dead and 150 wounded against 560 enemy killed.

U. S. spokesmen said the two battalions were pushing inland today toward a U. S. Army battalion and a South Vietnamese battalion. The three groups hope to surround an area of about eight square miles believed to hold up to 800 North Vietnamese regulars and an unknown number of guerrillas.

The operation was not announced until today for security reasons. Spokesmen said the advancing troops so far have encountered only light sniper fire and they speculated it might be some time before the cordon is closed tight enough to force the enemy to fight or surrender.

The Batangan Peninsula is only 11 miles from the U. S. Army's American Division headquarters at Chu Lai. It has been a major enemy storage area and base camp since the war with the French, and minor probes of its defenses have almost always resulted in fierce fighting.

Nixon To Back Johnson's Plea To Extend Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is expected to outline his analysis of the State of the Union in broad terms tonight and defer recommendations for specific legislation to his successor.

Close associates of the outgoing President say the only exception in his farewell address to a joint session of Congress, and to the nation via television and radio, will be to recommend that the 10 per cent income tax surcharge be extended.

By doing so he can include the $13 billion annual revenue produced by the surcharge in his budget for fiscal 1970, and thus show a small surplus when he sends his last breakdown on government spending to Congress Wednesday.

Johnson and President-elect Nixon have been maneuvering for two weeks over the issue of extending the tax, approved for one year by Congress as a check on an overheated economy and due to expire June 30.

The President, reported to believe that the tax was still needed to combat inflation, tried to get Nixon to join him in a public statement advocating extension. Nixon, who had criticized the tax surcharge during the campaign, demurred.

But after it became known Monday that Johnson would recommend continuance of the surcharge, with or without Nixon's endorsement, he apparently got private assurances of support from the president-elect.

In his address tonight, Johnson is expected to speak in broad, general terms of a necessity for revitalizing the nation's cities as a means of attacking the root of discontent that has led to racial rioting in many slum areas and to violent demonstrations by many college and university students.

Cosmonaut Is Sent In Orbit

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet cosmonaut was hurled into orbit today in continuation of tests of the trouble-plagued Soyuz spaceship.

Unofficial reports circulated in Moscow that another cosmonaut would play a role in the mission, possibly attempting the Soviet Union's first manned linkup. A Moscow television announcer said Air Force Lt. Col. Vladimir Shatalov, riding Soyuz-4, would carry out a "complex, responsible mission."

Col. Shatalov radioed from orbit that he was feeling fine.

Col. Vladimir Beregovoy's test of Soyuz-3 last October was the first successful mission carried out by the ship. It flew simultaneously with the unmanned Soyuz-2 craft.

Soyuz-1, in April 1966, ended in disaster when Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov crashed to earth and was killed. During the next 18 months Western space observers closely followed a series of unmanned launchings with Soyuz orbital dimensions. These were believed to be re-entry tests aimed at preventing recurrence of the Komarov tragedy.

Tass said Shatalov, 41, was put into orbit by a "powerful carrier rocket" at 2:39 a.m. EST.

Four flaming exhaust jets could be seen on the television report of the launching.

Tass said Shatalov had successfully operated the craft's manual controls, adjusting his position by making a fix on the sun.

Ground controllers are keeping in touch with the rookie cosmonaut by radio and television, Tass added.

Steer Around

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A steer 22 feet long and nearly 13 feet high blocked traffic on a busy thoroughfare Friday.

The 1,200-pound steer, built of plastic and other man-made materials, was part of a sign mounted on a trailer, advertising a steak restaurant nearby, police said.

Officers said vandals had pulled it into the street.

Hanoi Strategy Cuts Fighting For Politics

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—This strange est of wars is moving toward another turning point. There is a general feeling that a cutback in U. S. forces is coming, but lack of agreement on what it will mean.

Many see the tide of war running in favor of the allies now. Others believe this view is valid only if the political eddies swirling about the war are ignored. And the enemy retains a potential to upset the best laid plans.

On the surface, the time to begin leaving seems nearer than at any period since the first U. S. combat troops arrived nearly four years ago.

Enemy In Disarray

Enemy forces appear in disarray after a year of vast blood-letting. Land and population swallowed up in last February's Tet offensive are being recovered in huge slices by minimal forces. Allied casualties are down.

Yet there is doubt that these things point toward an end to the fighting. Enemy forces are still massed on the borders, and a Frenchman who fought in the first Indochina war observes:

"They are waiting in the wings, waiting for the Paris show to unfold."

Many knowledgeable Americans and Vietnamese suggest the military picture reflects international political developments late in 1968, particularly those surrounding the halt of U. S. bombing against North Vietnam.

Foe Disengage

These people detect an obvious pattern of disengagement of major enemy units, a deliberate slackening in tempo. They feel this was less the result of allied military efforts on the ground than a direct response to the Johnson administration's eagerness to get the Vietnam talks started, an eagerness indicated by the November bombing halt and apparent American consent in Paris talks, one way or another.

There is recurring talk about some kind of package plan to be presented to the Nixon administration by the Vietnamese gov-

Negroes Edgy About Nixon

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)—President-elect Nixon, who pledged that dissenters would be heard in the councils of his administration, has encountered some—although apparently second-hand.

Leaders of six Negro organizations spent over an hour with Nixon in New York Monday and two of them asserted later that his appointments are troubling the Black community.

Nixon arrived early today in Key Biscayne, his Florida retreat, for a surprise visit expected to extend until Friday. He came alone, and planned to work alone on the final draft of his inaugural address.

Nixon is expected to spend Friday night and Saturday in New York, then fly to Washington next Sunday on the eve of his inauguration.

After Monday's New York meeting, Matthew Wright of the Black Power Conference singled out Daniel P. Moynihan, Nixon's assistant for urban affairs, for his criticism.

Wright said Moynihan is committed to "the white mind, set," which emphasizes the rehabilitation of buildings instead of people in dealing with city problems.

"He has added to the possibility of disorder in the streets by his being there," Wright said.

He said he believes a Negro should have been Nixon's chief adviser on the cities.

India Opposes Britain On Nuclear Controls

LONDON (AP)—India acted today to thwart a British call for Commonwealth backing of the pact aimed at stopping the spread of nuclear weapons.

The issue arose behind the scenes in exchanges on a communique being prepared for the 28-nation summit conference of leaders representing more than 700 million people on five continents. It is due for discussion against a high level today.

As a nuclear power and prime initiator of the nuclear non proliferation treaty, Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government wanted the communique to include a declaration that would have expressed unanimous Commonwealth backing for the controversial pact.

The British, like their American and Russian fellow signatories, maintain the dangers of nuclear war would be lessened if states with a nuclear potential would voluntarily forego the right to build such weapons.

But India, on the threshold of nuclear power itself, has been resisting the move. Senior Indian officials argued in committee that the treaty discriminates in favor of existing nuclear powers.

They maintained it aims at perpetuating a monopoly of nuclear military capacity for the great powers without imposing on them any obligation to scale down their nuclear arsenals.

Britain and India rallied supporters for their positions. Australia and Canada were among the most important of Britain's backers, among other reasons because their security is insured by the nuclear power of their American allies.

If Problems Instigate Progress, Business Will Have A Big Year

NEW YORK AP)—If the strength of a good business lies in its ability to turn problems into opportunities, then big business today is potentially very strong and facing unlimited opportunities.

The big automakers are being sued by the U.S. government, International Business Machines is accused by competitors in antitrust suits, Boeing is stymied by technology in efforts to produce a supersonic airliner.

The stock market is knotted by more problems than can be solved in this decade. Bad work methods, commission disputes, misuse of information, stiff regulation and growing institutional power provide unlimited work for problem solvers.

Some of the major oil companies are scrapping among themselves and against Occidental Petroleum, which seeks a free trade zone for its imports along the Maine Coast.

In Court Action

The Federal Trade Commission has ordered U.S. Steel to divest itself of a ready-mix concrete company and in doing so interpreted the law to make it more difficult for large companies to buy smaller, failing, firms.

In fact, of the first 10 companies in Fortune Magazine's list of largest industrial firms, four others besides U.S. Steel have been named in court actions so far this month.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, the first, third and fifth largest, have been accused in a Justice Department civil antitrust suit of having unlawfully delayed installation of anti-smog devices in their cars.

IBM, accused earlier by Control Data Corp. of unfair business practices, was named by Data Processing Financial & General Corp. in an antitrust suit involving a claim for $1 billion in damages.

Commercial Banks

Checking through the other categories of Fortune's largest businesses reveals enough problems for the big firms to keep staffs of problem-solvers happy.

The commercial banks have the type of problem they have long feared:

Increasing demand for their funds but not enough funds to lend. Because of their dilemma, they are forced to charge higher rates and to withhold credit.

Consider the plight of the life insurance companies, another category in the Fortune lists. No matter how they may deny it, the fact is that life insurance doesn't enjoy the standing it once had.

Because inflation has made fixed-return securities less desirable, funds that conceivably would have gone to the big insurers are going into mutual funds instead. The result: Insurers are being forced to learn the mutual fund business.

Growth A Problem

As for the mutual funds. Well, they've been battling one of the most welcome problems ever to confront an industry. Thirty years ago the funds didn't have $1 billion in assets. Now they have more than $50 billion.

Their problem? Growth. Some of the funds that could show 50 per cent increases in value when they were small have found that as they grew—the result of their success—percentage increases became more difficult.

If any substantiation of this is desired ask Gerald Tsai, who as portfolio manager of a large Boston fund and then as manager of his own Manhattan Fund, scored spectacular increases. Last year, with his fund larger than ever, he finished with a net loss.

Merchandizing is another Fortune category, and the problems as well as opportunities here are huge. The most persistent is the contrary behavior of the consumer. Nobody seems able to satisfy him for long.

Challenges

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., for example, will tell you how difficult it is to give the customer precisely the foods and other products he desires. A&P growth has almost stagnated at times in recent years.

The next category: Transportation. The largest firm in the list is Pennsylvania-New York Central, which had more than $2 billion in operating revenues last year. It's problem: The New Haven Railroad, a bankrupt operation it was forced to purchase under government pressure.

Nobody can say that business today isn't being given the problems to turn into opportunities. If challenges bring out the best, then things couldn't be an awful lot better.

Arabs Tighten Israeli Boycott

By The Associated Press

The Arab states plan to tighten their 16-year economic boycott of Israel and foreign firms that do business with the Jewish state, a spokesman said Tuesday. But he did not announce what action would be taken.

Mohammed Mahjob, commissioner general of the Arab League's Boycott Israel movement, said in Damascus, Syria, that measures "to plug the gaps in the siege" are in the offing. He said they would be approved at a conference in Qatar Jan. 20.

Currently on the Arab black list are firms that have main or branch factories in Israel; firms that hold shares in Israeli businesses; firms that render contractual or technical aid to Israeli industry; firms searching for natural resources in Israel; banks that do more business in Israel than in Arab states, and those that give the right to use names, trade marks or patents to Israeli concerns.

Shipping and air lines are blacklisted if they carry Jewish immigrants or military cargo to Israel. The boycott regulations also apply against film stars and movie companies that are deemed to serve Israeli propaganda or financial interests.

America's Ford Motor Co. and Coca Cola are on the black list. To avoid a similar fate, many large firms such as Renault of France shut down their assembly plants in Israel.

Mahjob said 67 firms from various countries have applied to be taken off the black list and have provided documents proving the termination of their association with Israel. These applications will be decided at the Qatar conference, he said.

In Tel Aviv, an army spokesman reported fresh border clashes between Israeli and Jordanian troops while the military leaders of both countries appeared on a British television program Monday night. The spokesman said two Israeli soldiers were wounded in brief firefights and another was wounded when his jeep ran over a mine in the occupied west bank of the Jordan River.

Miss Pineau Dies In Oregon Sunday

Miss Chlorey Pineau, 72, of Corvallis, Ore., formerly of Rapid River, died at 9 p.m. Sunday in Oregon after suffering a heart attack. She had been in ill health for seven months.

She was born Dec. 12, 1896 in Rapid River and had resided in this area until moving to Corvallis 12 years ago. She had taught school in the Rapid River area and was a member of St. Charles Borromeo Church.

She is survived by two brothers, Levi and Angus Pineau of Rapid River and six sisters, Mrs. Tom (Ethel) Bernier of Sacramento, Calif., Mrs. Tom (Elsie) Nicholson of Corvallis, Ore., Mrs. Anderson (Lyda) Demarse of Madison, Wis., Mrs. Carl Davis of Escanaba, Mrs. William (Adele) Constantineau of Schaffer and Mrs. Albin (Opal) Berg of Garden.

Scout Training Meeting Called

The second meeting of a two-part training session for Cub Scout leaders and den mothers will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce building.

Film strips and discussion relating to pack management, the pack meeting and the Webelos den will be presented. Institutional leaders and representatives, committeemen, den leaders and pack officials are invited.

Completion of the training series is required for the den leader training award issued by Hiawathaland Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Good Contractor Best For Soil Conservation Job

Whether it's a pond, a waterway or a tile system, the careful choice of a good conservation contractor is like having money in the bank—it's an economic investment in the future, advises the local Soil Conservation District.

The better contractor is generally familiar with the characteristics, problems, and acceptable land uses of the soils in your area. He is concerned with possible soil erosion on the family exposed ground and follows SCS suggestions for reducing erosion.

Membership in the Michigan Land Improvement Contractors Association is a good guide. The Association promotes improved standards for contracting work and better land use practices.

The Delta County Soil Conservation District maintains a list of contractors in this part of Michigan who have done previous jobs involving conservation excavation projects. The list can be seen at the Soil Conservation Service office, 2013 1st Ave. N., Escanaba.

Honors Students Listed By College

Thirty-two resident students of Delta County and six non-county students have earned membership in the President's Scholastic Honors Council, it is announced by President Richard Rinehart.

The recognition was for scholastic attainment in the Fall semester 1968-69.

Scholastic honors are awarded those students who earn not less than a 3.50 grade-point average and were enrolled for 12 or more credit hours of college work.

"Attainment of the minimum standard for Scholastic Honors is a significant academic achievement representing the very best that can be expected of college students," said Rinehart.

The Scholastic Honors students and their grade-point average are:

4.00 - Nancy Jane Casey, Donna J. Stiglitz, Escanaba; Mark O. Hansen, Rapid River; Louise Ann Ward, Wells; Donald D. Williams, Jane L. Williams, Gladstone.

3.80 - Colleen D. Fix, Escanaba.

Services For H. T. Olmstead Held In Florida

Dr. Henry T. Olmstead of Bradenton, Fla., formerly of Escanaba died at Manatee Memorial Hospital on Jan. 6. He was a former minor league pitcher, major league scout and chiropractor.

He was born in Sack Bay, Mich. and was the son of the Fred Olmsteads, who was the poor commissioner in Escanaba for many years. He was a chiropractor in Jackson, Mich., for 32 years.

Olmstead was a major league scout for the Detroit Tigers and later for Hank Greenberg when the latter was president of the Cleveland Indians.

Olmstead, who once struck out 23 batters in a nine inning game pitching for his Escanaba City Team in Green Bay, signed his first professional contract with the Milwaukee Club of the American Association after completing his freshman year at Notre Dame University.

Survivors include his widow, Alice, a son, Norman of Coldwater, Mich., a brother Fred Olmstead of Manistique and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted on Jan. 9 and burial was in Manasota Memorial Park.

Michigan Man Foiled In Hijacking Attempt

MIAMI (AP)—Three-year-old Brenden Carl McPeck is back with his mother today and his father is in jail for attempting to hijack an airliner to Cuba.

Kenneth McPeck, 31, of Orchard Lake, Mich., surrendered to police at Miami International Airport Monday after the plane's crew foiled his bold bid to divert a Delta Airlines jet to Havana with a shotgun.

McPeck told officers he wanted to flee to Cuba with his son, whom he had taken from his former wife in Michigan on Sunday for a planned one-day visit.

The plane, a Convair 880 flying nonstop from Detroit with 71 passengers and a crew of six, had started its final approach into Miami when McPeck summoned stewardess Lynn Sargent of Bricktown, N.J., to his first class seat.

"Biggest Gun" He asked me to close the curtain between the first class and tourist compartments," Miss Sargent said. "When I refused, he pulled his gun out of a brown suitcase under the seat, jabbed it into my stomach, and said to tell the pilot to go to Cuba."

Stewardess Lynn Sargent

The pilot, Capt. Harold Rowley, said Miss Sargent "banged on the door, came in and said there was a man out there with the biggest gun you ever saw." The door locked automatically behind her.

Rowley notified police on the ground. "We watched him through the window," he said. "He wasn't threatening us and we were three minutes at most from the ground, so we continued in our landing pattern."

McPeck offered no resistance when police came aboard. None of the passengers knew there had been a hijack attempt until the police came.

In Mental Hospital

The boy was taken into protective custody and held until his mother flew here.

The FBI charged McPeck with attempting to commit aircraft piracy, using force and frightening the crew.

U. S. Commissioner Edward P. Swann refused to set bond for McPeck, a slender man with thick blond hair. He appointed an attorney for him when he said he was unemployed and had only $70 with him.

McPeck said he had six dependents—his former wife whom he supports, their son Brenden Carl, his current wife and three children.

In Detroit, his mother, Mrs. Carl McPeck, said her son had quit his job at one of his father's service stations about six weeks ago. She said he had been treated at a mental hospital in the past.

Says Papers No Longer Sold By Bold Headlines

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors said Monday that "with rare exceptions newspapers no longer are sold on the basis of screaming headlines."

Vincent S. Jones of Rochester, who also is executive editor of the Gannett Newspapers, said they're sold on "solid day-in and day-out presentation of news, opinion and advertising."

"It is, sadly, true that the news, and especially in this particular time of troubles, seems to be dominated by bad news—that is, something bad happening to someone, or more often, to a great many people," he said.

He said much of this was unavoidable, "particularly if the news media continued to function as a mirror or recorder of life."

Small Crime Content

Jones told a Syracuse University conference on crime and the press that any honest content analysis would show that newspapers devote a relatively small percentage of space to crime.

"The sad thing is that people remember the bad things they read and gloss over the columns and columns of success stories and accounts of perfectly correct behavior," he said.

Jones said a more meaningful criticism "would focus on the fact not that newspapers cover so much crime news, but that they cover so little, with the result that our whole judicial process is largely unreported."

Jack E. Haskins, professor of newspaper research at Syracuse, said Americans know very little about the effect of newspaper reports of violence or juvenile crime, "and won't know until a sound field experiment is conducted."

Violent Interest

He also said a study showed that readers are more interested in stories of violence than many editors think they are.

Dr. Thomas S. Szasz, professor of psychiatry at the Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse, advocated abolishment of the insanity plea in criminal cases.

"The consequences of not pleading guilty by reason of insanity are neither clear nor generally understood," he said.

He said that in most states the choice was between different forms of institutionalization.

"Therefore, the sooner the insanity plea disappears because of its dire consequences for the defendant—loss of all freedoms—the better."

Lansing Hotel Has Minor Fire

LANSING (AP)—Three persons suffered minor injuries Monday in a fire which broke out in a fifth-floor room at the Capital Park Hotel in Lansing.

The fire, which was quickly controlled, caused an estimated $15,000 damage.

Two maids suffered minor burns when they attempted to extinguish the blaze. A guest at the hotel was taken to a hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

The fire was apparently caused by a lighted cigarette dropped in a chair, fire authorities said.

Sultan Is Sued

LONDON (AP) — The Sultan of Zanzibar, whose word was law on his African island until he was overthrown by a revolution five years ago, is being sued for nonsupport by his wife.

A London High Court is hearing the lawsuit, which began when the sultan, 38, summoned his lissome, 28-year-old wife, Princess Anisa, and declared three times in Moslem fashion: "I divorce thee."

Not only did the attempted divorce fail to work, but Princess Anisa took him to court for nonsupport.

Familiar Mirror Gone

The death of the Saturday Evening Post for lack of advertising will be regretted by many adults in America. They might not subscribe to it today, and save it, but now that it's gone we're sure they would have preferred in a nostalgic way that it linger on to remind them of the days of their youth, when its delivery was a highlight of the week in many American families.

It had stories for children and adults and editorials for father that were more conservative by far than Ben Franklin, who was credited on the cover with having found the Post, although that was a fib. The Post stopped pretending in the 1940's that Ben Franklin had been its founding father, but the impression lingered.

When the Post was first published in 1821 it was in the same Philadelphia print shop that had turned out Ben Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette. That is as close as Franklin came to the Post. It had good times and bad and this last bout with change did it in. Its greatest period was under Curtis ownership and the editorship of George Horace Lorimer, 1899-36, a very long period for magazine popularity, including the great changes brought by World War I.

World War II compounded the problems of power politics, urbanism and world peace. People were leaving the land for the cities. The language had new words: like welfarism. The Post for a century had mirrored a people which it said earned their security. Now they tried to vote it.

It turned to sensationalism and other modern gimmicks to survive, and it was a better journal in recent years, but the advertisers didn't buy it. Curtis publications lost $60 million since 1961 and the Post dropped most of it.

America had changed, drastically. The Post hadn't, enough to keep touch. This is not to say that it didn't know what was going on, but that it persisted with a mission that had been successful for a long time. The Post not only held the mirror up to middle class American life, it also set the style for it.

It was a distinguished publication. Six American Presidents wrote for it. Its articles were from a valhalla list of our best writers: Poe, Bret Harte, Kipling, Faulkner, Willa Cather, Sinclair Lewis, Carl Sandburg, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Stephen Vincent Benet, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Ring Lardner, Joseph Conrad, H. G. Wells.

The literary critic Benjamin Stolberg said of the Post that it had done more "to develop the short story as good composition and second rate literature than any other periodical I know. It was the only magazine where one may find a surprising amount of excellent writing which is not worth reading."

The Post lasted a lot longer than American Mercury with the criticisms of American life from H. L. Mencken, which now titillate so many critics who think that the Post's view was camp. When it is said that the advertisers abandoned the Post and closed it, it is, of course an indirect. Advertisers spend their money to influence readers. Readers abandoned the Post.

The backward view on it is critical: growing out of its failure. But there will be millions who will think that the death of the Post also signals the passing of an American way which, though it now appears simple, innocent and naive, was refreshingly wholesome.

Octavus Roy Cohen's stories of Florian Slapney and his other Negro characters wouldn't do today. Tugboat Annie would be dated in an age of nuclear submarines, and anyway Wally Beery and Marie Dressler are both dead, so who would make them into movies? Albert Payson Terhune might find it difficult to find a readership for his fine collie stories today. Clarence Buddington Kelland finally emerged as a Republican party leader, as though even he despaired of his continuing success in merchandising the myth of the Old West.

Chet Huntley said in benediction that the Post was edited by some of the best minds of the 19th Century; meaning, of course, operating in the 20th. This superior view of the past is always today's cheap pastime. But 148 years of publication is a tremendous record.

The Post gave millions of Americans of several generations great pleasure and entertainment and quite a bit of instruction. It is being faulted now for not having been sophisticated, understanding of change and the need for change, but we have the feeling that the words of the Bible: "Let him who is without sin among you cast the first stone" applies here. Funerals should be occasions for remembering the good about the dead and there's lots of good to remember about the Post. If it had done the things which its requiem critics infer should have been its business, it would have expired before World War I.

SNOWMOBILE TRAIL

The recent flurry of news concerning the habit of snowmobilers using their machines at inappropriate times and places has caused me to wonder if they know that there is an excellent snowmobile trail just a few miles from the Escanaba-Gladstone area.

I am referring to the riding trail provided by the U.S. Forest Service at the urging of our Silver Spur Saddle Club. This trail originates at a plowed access area on county road 509 exactly one mile north of its junction with old U.S. 2 on the Whitefish Hill.

The trail leads north crossing Bill's Creek at the old iron bridge and generally follows the east bluff of the Whitefish River. There is a wonderful view from this bluff for many miles across the wooded country to the west. The trail passes through some very fine groves of white pine and red pine and farther north traverses many miles of mature hardwood forest.

Although the trail runs for more than 20 miles through the woods it is seldom more than a half mile from road 509 which is a hard surface road and is kept plowed all year round. Because of this it is possible to terminate the snowmobile travel at any time by making the short run to the road.

This trail is used a number of times during the summer by our Silver Spur Saddle Club and other horsemen, and if the snowmobilers could be encouraged to make good use of it during the winter season the Forest Service might be willing to lay out more trails in other parts of their territory.

I am sure that the U.S. Forest Service Ranger Station at Rapid River would be glad to furnish more information about the trail to any one who inquired.

THE SEA LAMPREY

Due to this fact the Great Lakes system with the exception of lake Ontario was immune from all fish travel from the Atlantic Ocean. There were lamprey in the St. Lawrence river as far back as man has any record. At the same time there has been various species of fish in the river including both game and commercial fish.

In the (1850s) eighteen fifties the Welland canal was opened for the travel of ships between lake Ontario and lake Erie. This also opened a route of travel for any species of fish that worked into the St. Lawrence river from the Atlantic Ocean. This is how the lamprey entered the Great Lakes.

The lamprey prefers a smooth skinned fish such as the lake trout. It can attach itself to such a fish much easier than to a fish with scales. The lamprey had been in the Great Lakes for many years before they were accused of destroying the lake trout.

This was not true for the lamprey just finished what the commercial fishermen had already created by over fishing. As the lake trout became fewer in number the lamprey increased in numbers and soon they were in control of the lake trout situation. Over fishing by the commercial fishermen threw the whole fish population out of balance and gave the lamprey and other species of scrub fish full control of the lakes.

British, U.S. Girls Prefer Male Bosses

NEW YORK (AP) — Work for a woman? Never! That's the answer of American girls who were asked by The Associated Press if they agree with British women who responded to a nationwide psychological study by turning thumbs down on the idea of a woman boss.

"I wouldn't be caught dead working for a woman," said Diana Frankland, 30, a Boston brokerage secretary. "They're impossible as bosses."

"Women always seem to have a bone to pick," said another secretary—Joyce Forrester, 33, of Albuquerque. Mrs. Forrester said women are "just too bossy. Men are much more considerate."

The British survey was conducted by the National Institute of Industrial Psychology. The women were asked who they preferred working for and who they thought superior—men or women.

95 Per Cent Favor Men
More than 95 per cent of the British women said men make better bosses and nearly one-third admitted they thought men superior in general.

The girls on this side of the ocean agreed, although there were a few who opted for a distaff director.

"I prefer a man as boss. They're easier to get along with. . . A man will tell you what he wants done and let you do it," said Rita Strehl, a Burlingame, Calif., secretary who once worked for a woman.

Asked if she'd like to work for a woman, Joyce Covin, 25, a secretary at Texas Industries Inc. in Dallas, replied, "Oh damn no. I hate women—to work for that is. Their demands are not constructive like men's."

"Men can do everything better than women except have

The lamprey will not be controlled by artificial means such as chemicals and electric shockers in the streams. They may be slowed down but not controlled. As long as the Welland canal is open for travel of ships it will also be open for travel of fish. This includes the lamprey. There is no way this fish traffic can be stopped. The use of chemicals and electric shockers is a never ending proposition. As soon as their use stops the lamprey will be right back on the increase.

There is only one way the lamprey can be controlled and that is to stock the lakes on a large scale as fast as possible with the lake trout and other species of our native fish. When these fish are in sufficient number they will take control of the lamprey. If these fish are planted in volume and are given the proper protection from commercial fishing it shouldn't be too long before natural propagation will take over from artificial propagation.

The present program is too slow and should be pushed to at least a 30 or 40 million lake trout plant per year. At the same time other species of fish should be planted. When the natural balance is brought back in the fish population of these lakes not only the lamprey but also the alewife and other species of scrub fish will be controlled.

No one could accuse East of lack of decisiveness in today's bidding. When he doubled four spades he had no certainty of defeating the contract. Some players would expect that South would bring the contract home.

East did have one idea when he doubled. That was that his partner could not make five hearts. He was right about that. If he had passed and if West had gone on, five hearts would have been set at least one trick.

Unfortunately for East, South proceeded to wrap the four-spade contract around his neck.

It didn't require any tremendous playing ability. South ruffed the opening heart lead and studied the hand for some time. His problem was to decide whether to play diamonds or trumps first. He finally decided that the best line would be to play ace and another spade hoping for a 2-2 trump break or for the fall of a singleton honor. The trumps broke 2-2 and all South's worries were over.

West led a second heart after taking his king of spades. South ruffed and led a diamond to dummy's jack. East was in with the king and played a third heart which South also ruffed.

At this point South would have made five odd if diamonds had broken since he would have been able to discard three of dummy's clubs on his long diamonds. The 5-1 diamond break killed the over-trick but did not stop South from ruffing his fifth diamond and making the doubled game.

The game was team of four. At the other table the bidding proceeded the same way except that East did not double four spades. Sure enough, West went to five hearts.

North showed lack of decisiveness and passed. He did not have much but his four hearts were sure to annoy an enemy declarer. Anyway North passed. South decided to try five spades and that was one contract that could not be made.

Instead of bidding two clubs your partner raises your one spade bid directly to four spades. What do you do now?

Christmas Display Denotes Christian

Dear Ann Landers: We moved into this home seven months ago. The neighbors were very nice, until the second week in December, when they all began to put up lights, tree decorations, Santas and sleighs, angels, what have you. This block looked like Macy's windows. My wife and I have always placed our Christmas tree in the front window and that was all. We never felt it was necessary to go in for a big display.

On December 18 a neighbor telephoned and asked if we needed help to "put up our Christmas lights." I told her we were not putting up any lights. She then said, "Oh, then it's true — you folks aren't Christians." I replied, "I didn't say whether we were Christians or not. All I said was we are not putting up any lights."

The conversation didn't get any better and I finally hung up. Now my wife says I should not have left a doubt in the neighbor's mind as to whether or not we are Christians (we go to the Presbyterian Church). I say it's none of her business. Who is right, Ann, my wife or me? — GROSSE POINTE

Dear G. P.: You are. And a holly wreath to you, Bub, for not allowing your neighbor to put you on the defensive.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a bachelor who was keeping company with a middle-aged widow. Mary had this cat that I never cared for. Whenever I went to call, Jasper seemed to be watching every move I made. I was always uncomfortable around him.

Last week Jasper was sitting in the middle of the driveway when I came to call. I sounded the horn but he just sat there. I got mad because he was being stubborn so I ran over him.

Mary came out of the house at that moment. When she saw Jasper she became hysterical. It was plain that the cat was dead, but she insisted we take him to the vet's anyway. When I refused she told me to leave and never to come back.

I was very fond of Mary but if she would trade our relationship for a cat maybe she was too nutty to make a good wife. What do you say? — ANCHORAGE

Dear Anc: I say you sound like a sadistic kook and she is lucky to be rid of you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 13-year-old girl with a 38-year-old problem. My mother. Whenever I am invited to spend the night at a girl's house, she has to know the name, address and phone number of the girl. I don't mind this, but I DO mind when she calls the mother of the girl and gives her the third degree. This makes me look like a baby and I hate it. It also looks like my mother doesn't trust me.

Say something so my mother will cut it out. — NO INFANT
Dear N: What you consider the third degree is really a healthy interest in you. When a 13-year-old girl plans to spend the night away from home, her mother should speak to the friend's mother and make certain that at least one parent will be at home. I applaud her good judgment. And you should, too.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jury Selected, Auto Negligence Trial Underway

A 14-member jury in Circuit Court this morning heard four attorneys make opening statements in an automobile accident suit in which James and Carole Selmo of Grosse Pointe Woods are asking damages of $2.5 million as a result of injuries suffered in the accident.

Selection of the jury was completed before Judge Bernard H. Davidson about 10:30 a.m. after 26 prospective jurors had been excused from sitting on the panel for various reasons.

The suit arises from an automobile accident on U. S. 2 in Garden Township on June 18, 1966.

In the accident, a 1965-model Corvair being towed by a Curran Chevrolet Sales, Inc., wrecker broke loose, crossed the center-line of the highway and collided nearly head-on with an automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Selmo.

Damages for the Selmos are asked from Curran Chevrolet Sales, Inc., of Manistique, Arthur Barato Sr. and Arthur Barato Jr. of Laurium, and Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corp. The Baratos were listed as co-owners of the towed automobile.

Attorney Nicholas P. Chapekis, in his opening statement for the plaintiffs, alleged negligence on the part of Gerald Johnson, the driver of the Curran wrecker, in towing the automobile; alleged negligence on the part of Arthur Barato Jr. in failing to control the car after it broke away from the wrecker, and alleged negligence in the design of the automobile by General Motors.

Attorney Buel Doelle, representing Curran Chevrolet Sales and the co-partners of Leo, Donald and Elsworth Curran, denied negligence on the part of the wrecker driver, asserting that his actions in towing the car were what anyone would have done in similar circumstances.

Attorney Clair Hoehn, who represents the Baratos, also denied negligence on the part of Arthur Barato Jr., asserting there was nothing he could do to control the car after it broke loose in the short time

Sirhan Trial To Emphasize 'Why'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Both the state and the defense, by their questions to prospective jurors, have emphasized that the murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan will boil down to why the swarthy Jordanian immigrant killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"At the outset," chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper told the jurors Monday, "you should know that there will be no denial that our client fired the shot that killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy."

The jury's job, he said, will be to determine intent—"what was going on in his head at the time he pulled the trigger."

Kennedy was shot June 5, moments after claiming victory in the California presidential primary.

He died the next day. Cooper reminded prospective jurors that a charge of first degree murder requires a union of both act and intent.

before the collision.

John Peacock, attorney for General Motors, denied negligence in the design, asserting that the proofs from the witness stand will show no cause for action against GM.

Trial is expected to take about two weeks.

James Selmo, 28, a teacher, was present in the courtroom in a wheelchair. His wife, Carole, 26, is ill with the flu, but is expected to be present later in the trial.

8,000 Evacuated Due To Oil Leak Crisis In Ohio

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Crude oil gushing from a pipeline leak coursed through the sewers and stood in the streets of a 90-block section on the south side of Lima today. A spark could trigger a disaster.

Police and National Guard troops moved out almost 8,000 persons, emptying homes and factories, and maintained night-long roadblocks and patrols while firemen tried to wash down the streets and flush out the sewers.

In the early morning hours, Acting Police Chief Ronald Cook said he was hopeful the situation was coming under control. "After a daylight inspection, we may be able to lift the restrictions at noon," he said.

Stop Leak
Buckeye Pipeline Co., owner of the 22-inch pipeline, said the leak was stopped by an excavation crew after six hours.

An Air Force firefighting team from Wright-Patterson AFB at Dayton, Ohio, brought in liquid foam for pumping into the sewers.

More than 1,800 persons spent the night in emergency overnight shelters in schools, an armory and a Salvation Army facility.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police said the owner of a St. Louis rooming house was beaten and locked in a closet for five days without food or water.

They identified the owner as Miss Ann Petroski, 57. She told authorities an employee beat her, took her keys, pushed her into the closet and nailed it closed last Wednesday. Police said they also found a bed blocking the door.

The employee, identified as William H. Knott, 50, was arrested and booked suspected of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, robbery, burglary and stealing.

Miss Petroski was treated at City Hospital for a broken nose, cuts and bruises and lack of nourishment.

Planning For Delta Area

Land Use Meets Look To Future

Michigan State University Extension Service is inviting Delta County citizens to a series of three meetings on land use in the area.

The meetings are part of a series being presented throughout Michigan by MSU Extension specialists.

"We are inviting people who have an interest in the future of our Delta County community and even beyond its boundaries," said Joseph L. Heirman, Extension director in Delta. "We hope to attract leaders in business, labor, the professions and local government; city dwellers, suburbanites and rural residents."

Heirman said that while land area remains constant, its population grows and that the three meetings will stimulate thinking about local land use in the future.

The meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Extension meeting room in the Delta County Building on three Thursdays, Jan. 23, Jan. 30 and Feb. 6.

The first meeting will examine changes in current land use in Delta the Upper Peninsula, Michigan and the world, and agriculture, forestry, recreation, transportation and urbanization as forces which will influence land use.

The second meeting will focus on conflicts and problems that develop from the new demands for land for urban, agricultural, suburban, forestry and recreational uses.

The third session examines the role of local government in planning, financing and guiding land-use changes. ("Conflicting actions of individuals and groups seeking their own goals can result in a chaotic community.")

How a community can organize a plan for land use changes will be examined. (Escanaba, Gladstone and Delta County have all contracted for master planning services, but there have been no coordinating efforts reported.)

Among the MSU Extension specialists who will address the meetings in Escanaba are William J. Kimball, community resource development; Richard W. Bell, agriculture; Eugene F. Dice, community resource development; Alvin E. House, state and local government; Charles Kaufman, natural resources; and Arthur C. Mauch, agricultural policy.

Monday Begins Pueblo Inquiry

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Navy will open a court of inquiry into the case of the intelligence ship Pueblo next Monday.

Announcing this last night, the Navy said the inquiry would have three phases, including the mission and operation of the ship, its seizure last Jan. 23 by North Korea and the detention of the crew.

Five admirals will constitute the court, with Cmdr. William R. Newsome acting as judge advocate.

Newsome said there was no question of seeking to apply to the Pueblo's crew the Military Code of Conduct, which forbids making confessions while a prisoner of war.

He said the reason is that "we are not in a state of war with North Korea" and the crewmen were illegally detained.

While the U. S. sailors were imprisoned North Korea made public what it said were confessions that the ship was in coastal waters, but the Navy has denounced these as false.

Romney, Johnson Trade Quips

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan met with President Johnson Monday in the last of a series of visits by members of President-elect Nixon's cabinet, with the two trading quips while meeting the press. The president pointed to the gathered reporters and said "that's a pretty good looking bunch isn't it, you'll be facing them soon."

But Romney didn't think so. Said Romney, "they'll be over here (referring to his new office across the street)."

But the president brought experience to bear and cautioned the Michigan governor, "you'll be over here some of the time to get things you'll need for your program."

Second Docking

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Mrs. Virginia Docking watched a second chapter in Kansas history unveiled Monday when her son, Robert Docking, was inaugurated for a second term as governor of Kansas.

Her son was following in the footsteps of his father, the late George Docking, who was the first Democrat ever to win reelection to the governor's office in this historically Republican state.

GLADSTONE

Manager Praises City Employees For 'Snow Job'

City Manager H. J. Henrikson Monday night expressed appreciation to city employees for "tremendous efforts" in cleaning up city streets after the recent snowstorms.

Henrikson made the statement when requesting authorization from the City Commission to purchase a snowplow from Bark River Culvert & Equipment Co. of Escanaba at a cost of $704.

Henrikson told the commission that much credit is due city employees, who worked as long as 18 hours a day, seven days a week. He said last Sunday was the first Sunday many employees had been off work in over a month.

All department's employees responded when necessary and cooperation was superb, Henrikson said.

He also expressed appreciation to Gladstone residents, who were generally sympathetic and understanding to the problems involved. He said citizen response was excellent when asked to remove snow from fire hydrants.

Equipment Rented

A large, front-end loader has been rented to open alleys, but Henrikson said that should another storm hit the area continuation of efforts to open alleys might not be possible due to the height of snowbanks. He said garbage pickups will be made from streets rather than from alleys during the problem period and requested residents to shovel a shelf in snowbanks so garbage cans can be seen from the streets.

Street widening began today with crews using a grader to cut down banks and Henrikson asked parents to forbid children from making snow houses or forts in the banks to prevent a serious accident in event a child should be caught in a snow house when the grader is at work.

Henrikson said no attempt will be made to open sidewalks and that cars may be parked in a cleared space on boulevards, but should be back six to eight feet across unopened sidewalks.

In other business, the commission extended the opening of bids for garbage collection and sanitary landfill contracts until Jan. 27. Since only one bid was received, the commission decided to investigate the cost of purchasing and operating equipment for garbage collection if a "satisfactory" bid is not received.

An invoice from Northern Michigan Engineers, Inc., in the amount of $71.40 for inspection of curbing installed last year was approved.

To Open Bids

A special meeting of the commission will be held Feb. 20 to open bids for construction of the new water filtration plant. On request of Williams & Works Engineers, Grand Rapids, the work schedule will be speeded up to permit construction to start early this spring.

A forum for commanding police officers will be held Feb. 17-24 at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, and the Commission approved attendance of Chief James Norick, if he wishes to participate.

A group of Boy Scouts from Troop 466 attended the meeting as part of the required work on a community service badge.

The meeting was the first for Douglas Bovin, who was appointed to the commission to replace Frank Stupak.

Loses License After Accident

Lawrence J. Deneau, Rte. 1, Gladstone, was issued a Gladstone City Police summons for driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages, after striking a parked car on Superior Ave. and 7th St. Sunday evening. Deneau appeared before District Judge Dean Shipman on Monday and was ordered to pay a $75 fine and $10 costs after pleading guilty. He also surrendered his driver's license.

Council Told To Treat Addicts As Sick Persons

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's Common Council heard testimony Monday from a variety of officials in support of a proposed plan to treat drug addicts and alcoholics as sick persons instead of criminals.

Council members indicated strong support for the program, which would require municipal funds. There was no estimate on what the cost might be.

On hand to testify were various local officials, narcotics experts and representatives of area schools. Many expressed particular concern over the rising use of drugs among students.

The council instructed the officials to return next month with detailed plans of the proposed program.

There may be people who know more about Mutual Funds than Tom Neuman tatives. And one reason we want him in Escanaba is that he knows more about Mutual Funds probably than anyone around.

Of course, we don't expect he'll ever get smart alecky about that.

But if he should, just ask about his golf score.

Community School Program Puts A 'Dream' Into Action

By DAVE ANDREWS

Wallace Cameron, late superintendent of the Gladstone public schools, left many things to the community in his 25 years as the educational leader, but a dream he didn't live to see in full-scale operation is beginning to materialize.

Last fall, a Community School program went into operation in the Gladstone public schools, providing activity and enrichment opportunities for hundreds of area residents, young and old alike.

The program is now in the final stages of its first semester operation, but bigger and better plans are being made for the second semester.

"A program like this was one of Mr. Cameron's dreams," said Robert Richards, director of the program. "I wish he were living to see it."

Richards, a young man with a flair for organization and a mind full of ideas, put the Community School program in operation.

Program Expands

Initially, the schedule was relatively light, but more and more activities have been added to the program, keeping school rooms filled and lights burning well into the evening on every weeknight.

"You should see the cars around the high school every night," one resident remarked. "You can't even get a parking place."

In the program, Richards has adult diploma and enrichment programs, pre-teen and teen club evenings, intramural basketball and other recreation for high schoolers and even activities for elementary children after school.

There's something available for practically everyone in the community, if they desire to take advantage of the program. "Getting a good program started takes a little time," Richards said, "but we're coming along."

Not Like Escanaba

"Our situation is a little different than Escanaba's," he continued. "We didn't have any recreation outside of the summer. In the winter, the city runs the skating rink and there is the ski park, but any other recreation has to go on through the schools. The kids don't have a Catherine Bonifas Civic Center to go to, so part of our program has been to try to utilize the facilities we do have in the schools."

The recreational aspects are just half of the program, Richards emphasized. The other part is the adult high school education evening classes.

Through this program, adults are able to return to school to complete classes toward a high school diploma that for some reason they failed to receive in their youth.

"The program is mainly for adults who have dropped out of school," Richards said.

May Graduate

In the diploma program, adults can get a maximum of four credits a year in the Gladstone program. Students need 90 hours of class per credit and they get it by attending three-hour sessions one night per week for 30 weeks. All classes run from 7 to 10 p.m.

Richards said 14 different classes are in operation, ranging from the basic high school courses of English, history and American government, through the Commercial courses of typing, office machines and book-keeping to Science and math.

Of 83 students, including some from Escanaba enrolled in the program, 23 are listed as possible graduates in June. As a part of the diploma program, adults can receive credit toward a diploma for work experience outside of school, Richards explained, thus reducing the number of credits required for graduation. For example, he said, men pick up job skills which are taught in high school programs and women learn homemaking techniques for which credit might be allowed.

The enrichment portion of the adult education program features other activities such as bridge, sewing, personal typing and men's and women's recreation.

Richards said the program is financed through the Gladstone public schools as the program is considered part of the total school program.

Get Mott Money

The Mott Foundation of Flint, driving force behind many community school programs, will provide Gladstone $11,000 over a three-year period. Other income comes from adult tuition, fees charged to teenagers and state assistance for students in the diploma program.

Briefly Told

The Homemakers Extension Group will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Prins, 803 Dakota Ave., at 8 p.m. today. Members may work on any project they wish.

WARREN R. ANDERSON, son of Mrs. Robert Anderson and the late Robert Anderson of Gladstone will receive his Bachelor of Arts degree in Industrial Arts at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, Michigan on Jan. 18, Saturday.

Bounty Business:

Payment Goes Down; Pressures Going Up

The payment by states of bounties on predators is declining after reaching an estimated $2 million in 1960—but the $1 million paid out by 22 states in 1968 is still a high cost with little or no benefit, believes the Bounty Information Service of Columbia, Mo.

"With Minnesota, Pennsylvania and California out of the 'bounty club' and Michigan and South Dakota and Wisconsin making reductions in their system, the yearly average has been greatly reduced," says Charles Laun, editor of Bounty News.

Missouri led all the rest in the total of bounties paid—$122,661—followed by Kansas with $120,000, Alaska $108,250, Indiana $90,000, Iowa $80,000, Illinois $75,000 and Michigan in seventh place with $64,575.

Missouri's experience with the bounty system caused "alarm when the state paid out over $90,000 and the state controller asked for an extra $25,000 to finish out the year," Laun reported.

"There is still much concern about animals brought in from other states, particularly Kansas, for Missouri bounty payments. Kansas pays a $2 coyote bounty, Missouri a tantalizing $15 per scalp," Laun added in his report.

Minnesota, which has shown a decline in bounty payments along with some others in regroundhog, bob cat, timber wolf.

Laun reports that the Minnesota group favoring bounties on wolves would also ban the use of public funds for "teaching unsound wildlife philosophies."

In Michigan

The State of Michigan pays bounties on coyotes: $20 for females and $15 for males.

Until a few years ago the state also paid bounties on fox and bobcat—$5 per animal.

The trend is away from bounty killing but the pressures stay on, says Robert Timmer, Escanaba District supervisor, Department of Natural Resources.

"Paying bounties is like pouring money down the drain," he said.

cent years, may be back in the ranks of the top big 10 spenders if a wolf bounty plan advanced by a "bounty booster club" receives legislative approval.

Part of the plan is to appropriate $100,000 from the state general fund to eliminate the "big bad wolf" in Minnesota, and the "bounty booster club" expects to put the system into effect although it is opposed by state game and fish officials.

"The reward hunters are constantly looking for more funds and wildlife to exploit," says Laun. "Fortunately they are not in the majority, but too often they are the best organized and find little opposition from an apathetic public."

There's little doubt the bounty systems will be around for some time to come since the "old corps" refuses to see their ineffectiveness "even when confirmed with mountains of scientific evidence," Laun adds.

The list of animals on which bounties were paid in the United States last year is surprising:

Wensel, mole, bear, horned owl, copperhead, wolverine, crow, rattlesnake, starling, Belgian hare, mountain lion, porcupine, gopher, fox, coyote.

Gulf Postpones Injunction Suit

DETROIT (AP)—Gulf Oil Co. Monday postponed a suit seeking an injunction to halt picketing at two Detroit-area oil depots.

The action came in a hearing before Circuit Court Judge Richard Maher.

The request for a postponement was based on the mutual beliefs by both sides the strike would soon be settled.

One of the struck companies, Union Oil, has reached a tentative agreement with the striking workers.

In spite of the postponement, Judge Maher decided to keep four deputies on duty to guard against incidents on the picket line.

However, Sheriff Roman Gribbs emphasized the men were there simply to oversee and not to guard anything.

Detroit Third In Auto Safety

CHICAGO — (AP) — Detroit ranks as third best among major cities in efforts to hold down on traffic deaths, according to the National Safety Council.

In American cities with over a million cars registered, Detroit was in a three-way tie for third place with 3.4 deaths per 10,000 registered vehicles. The other two cities were Los Angeles and Philadelphia.

Only Houston, with 2.7, and Chicago, with 3.3, boasted a better record in statistics complete through November.

Lansing and Kalamazoo were the only other Michigan cities in the top 5 in their categories. Kalamazoo was second in the 50,000 to 100,000—vehicle group with 0.8 deaths per 10,000 cars, while Lansing was second in the 1000 to 200,000 bracket at 1.6.

Strength Needed To Survive These Weeks

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — If you think life is going to get back to a dull routine now that the holidays are over, you couldn't be more mistaken. There are plenty of jolly celebrations yet to come.

According to Chases' Calendar of Annual Events, there are 1,471 occasions to celebrate in 1969, ranging from Give Your Girl a Pearl Day through "D for Decency" Week and on to Horse Health Month.

National Wildlife Week is March 16 to 22, but judging from the list of observations on tap, life will be pretty wild for the nation the entire year.

For instance, almost before you get all the pine needles out of the carpet, along will come Sandy Shoes Festival Jan. 17 to 26 in Fort Pierce, Fla.

Then, on a more serious note, there's National "Pay Your Bills" Week Feb. 3 to 7. At this somber time it would be well to look forward to National Laugh Week April 1 to 9 and American Comedy Week April 7 to 15.

Theodore Marini told his parents he was kidnapped by three persons who drove him to Los Angeles, forcing him to cash checks along the way.

Marini's parents called the Los Angeles Police Department, who in turn called the FBI. The FBI investigated the case, saying the kidnap story was untrue.

No word has been given on whether a charge will be made against Marini.

hang around until National Green Olive Week Sept. 4 to 12. In fact, the whole year is garished with snacktime. There's National Peanut Week March 5 to 15, National Popcorn Week Oct. 24 to 31 and National Pretzel Week Oct. 27 to Nov. 3.

Luckily the National Indigestion Season is scheduled Nov. 27 to promoting relief for the indigestion period which follows the Thanksgiving turkey and extends through New Years Day.

Believe it or not, there really is an Old Home Week. It's held in New Hampshire Aug. 16 to 23.

But what I am personally most looking forward to is Respect Elders Day set for Dec. 31. However, I think it would have a much greater chance of success if it came before, instead of after, Christmas.

DERRICKS

The first Derrick was the most notorious hangman of 17th-century London. He devised a kind of gallows that bore a remote resemblance to the industrial derricks of today, hence the term derrick for a hoisting device.

Stray Cat Gives Blood To Cat Of High Pedigree

BLACKBOURTON, England (AP)—Pedigree is all very well until something goes wrong with the blue blood. Then, as usual, it is the good red blood of the workers that is needed to put things right.

Take the case of Gigi, a superior Siamese cat which lives with the Shaw family in this rural Oxfordshire village. She was dying of a rare blood disease and the fact that she was something of an aristocrat was not much help.

Along came Cuddles, a homeless stray being looked after by a cat lover, Betty Munford, who already had 40 strays in her home.

Cuddles is a democrat, not the least concerned that Gigi was born on the other side of the tracks. Cuddles gave Gigi two transfusions of good red blood and saved her life.

Miss Munford is now seeing if Cuddles qualifies for an award. "Other animals get awards for saving lives," she said. "But Cuddles' best reward would be for someone to give him a loving home."

Roman Statues Losing Heads

ROME (AP) — Romans have been losing their heads.

The city's superintendent of antiquities reports that 15 old marble statues in city parks have been decapitated since 1962.

The big Villa Borghese Park in the center of Rome lost heads of a satyr, two Hermes statues, and half a dozen ancient consuls, senators, warriors and orators.

Not much can be done about it. The statues are scattered along miles of walks through parks and in odd nooks and corners of ancient Rome which are unguarded at night.

Authorities doubt if the beheading is the work of vandals or even souvenir hunters. They believe it's done by thieves specifically commissioned to supply antique statue fragments to a clandestine market.

Some heads eventually are recovered in and around Rome, decorating modern villas. The best fragments and most of the heads probably find their way into the hands of collectors abroad.

The beheaded statues are left standing—headless. They do not look particularly out of place that way.

What with the wear and tear of time, and the depredations of the early barbarians, Rome has many ancient statues as armless as the Venus de Milo and as headless as Winged Victory of Samothrace.

But one Rome newspaper, Il Messaggero, expressed some fears for the future.

"If this keeps up," the newspaper said, "The time will come soon when there won't be a personage in Rome—at least in marble—with a head on his shoulders."

Denies Sorority Has Racial Ban

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Kent Morgan, national president of the Pi Beta Phi sorority, Monday denied a report the University of Michigan chapter at Ann Arbor had been banned from seeking new members because of alleged racial restrictions.

"Pi Beta Phi has never had any racial restrictions in over 100 years of existence," Mrs. Morgan said. "Our sorority has members of every race and religion and many different nationalities."

The formal rush is now under way on the Michigan campus, but Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Delta are not participating following the Board of Regents approval of a ruling barring racial restrictions.

Pi Beta Phi's problem at Ann Arbor centers on rules about references, financial responsibility and other membership qualifications, claims Mrs. Morgan, which have "absolutely nothing to do with racial restrictions."

Henriette Kussy, Michigan chapter president, said the sorority is revising its membership qualifications to be presented for adoption at the national convention in June.

Manganese Deposit Is Worthless: Geologist

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—De- posits of manganese in Lake Michigan off Green Bay which were earlier valued "conservatively" at $15 million are commercially worthless, a Wisconsin State geologist told a committee Monday.

George Hanson, in a report to the Natural Resources Council of State Agencies, said the samples of ore discovered by the University of Wisconsin scientists this summer had a manganese content which is too low to permit profitable extraction.

The deposits were first dis-

Annual Chamber Dinner Feb. 6

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce has assured the Escanaba Industrial Coordinating Committee composed of A. W. Freeman and Thomas Straebel, of full cooperation in coordinat- ing the industrial promotion activities of the Chamber, the Escanaba Foundation and the City of Escanaba. Manager Walter Lewke advised chamber directors Monday. President Don Brandt conducted the meeting.

The Escanaba Chamber is now in its fourth year of host- ing K. I. Sawyer AFB officers and wives each month, Lewke reported. ## Foreign Trade Up, Domestic Is Off At Bay Port

The Port of Green Bay, Wis., foreign traffic in the 1968 ship- ping season broke all previous records. The 197,097 tons ex- ceeded the previous high total of 187,231 tons attained in 1961 and compares with the 1967 figure of 164,732 tons.

Export totals of 58,624 tons and imports aggregating 138,- 473 tons was handled between April 20 and Nov. 31. Promi- nent among the commodities exported was dried milk, flour, bulgur, corn meal, animal tal- low, canned butter and butter oil. Included among the imports were quantities of woodpulp, chemicals, salt, plywood, twine and newsprint.

Domestic waterborne traffic handled via the Port of Green Bay was approximately 7% be- low the 1967 totals. Much of this decrease is due to reduced coal shipments to local indus- try and tie-up of coal loading docks because of a strike of railroad workers in the Chicago area.

Brother Felix To Preside Over K. Of C. Meeting

Escanaba Assembly 640, Fourth Degree Knights of Col- umbus, will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the K. C. Club- rooms in the Sherman Hotel.

Brother Felix, F.S.C., of the Holy Name High School faculty will preside at his first meet- ing as Faithful Navigator of the Assembly. He was recently elected to the unexpired term of the late Sir Knight Francis Denome of Escanaba.

Brother Felix of the Chris- tian Brothers Order is believed to be the first member of a re- ligious order to head a Knights of Columbus Council or Fourth degree assembly. He has been a very active member for sev- eral years.

closed at a conference in Octo- ber attended by 200 midwestern industrialists.

Prof. J. Robert Moore, a uni- versity marine geologist, de- scribed the deposit, which lies in relatively shallow water off Green Bay's western shoreline, extending north to Escanaba, Mich., as a potential contributor to the state's economy.

Hanson noted several studies documenting the average man- ganese content of the ore at about 20 per cent. He said a con- tent of at least 35 per cent is necessary before profitable ex- traction may be carried out.

He suggested that representa- tives from Wisconsin and Michi- gan meet to develop guidelines for mining permit requests that no permits be issued for the time being, and that permits are issued in the future, evi- dence be presented proving the economic feasibility of extrac- tion.

Hanoi Strategy Cuts Fighting For Politics

ernment, possibly involving the withdrawal of 20,000 - 50,000 U.S. troops. "It is no longer a question of pulling out troops," one U.S. official says. "The questions now are when and how many?"

Could Cut Third?
This need not necessarily rep- resent a weakening of the allied military posture.

One critic believes that the American troop commitment of more than 500,000 men could be cut by one-third, and yet in- crease the performance by 25 per cent. He asserts that the layering of headquarters ele- ments, the comparatively soft living in rear areas, has led to a multiplicity of facilities.

He believes also that the U.S. commitment can be reduced without increasing pressure on the Vietnamese army.

Those who favor an American outback believe Vietnam looks like an interminable, open-end- ed, nonproductive commitment to most Americans.

Slow Process
A outback in forces would al- leviate that condition, they be- lieve, by giving a goal.

But once the initial cuts were made, the rest would come slow.

Most knowledgeable Ameri- cans say that if the United States decides to fight and not talk in Vietnam, U.S. troops can be thinned to a minimum of 200,000 within four years, and 100,000 within 10 years, with those 100,000 based here indefi- nitely.

And American dead, which in 1968 doubled the total of dead of all previous years in Vietnam to 30,551 by year's end, could be expected to continue but in di- minished proportions.

Year To Withdraw
Even with the best prospects, a complete peace with both sides agreeing to withdraw, and all terms okayed, it would take 12 to 18 months for all American units to move out of Vietnam in an orderly fashion, experts in the logistics field say.

That America can diminish her efforts in the war is a propo- sition based on two assumptions — that the Vietnamese army will improve, and that the Hanoi-led armies will disintegrate. Many senior Americans have expressed belief that the Viet- namese armed forces are get- ting better, and observations in various sections bear this out. But it is the transformation of a once nearly defeated army to an improving army, not yet to a winning army, that seems to be taking place. Important visitors still have to be flown 400 miles to Hue to see a good Vietnamese division, the 1st, in action. And this division has fought all year with the help of three American divisions — the 101st and the 1st Cavalry Divisions, and the 3rd Marine Division — using their massive firepower and air sup- port.

Fear Peace
Vietnamese observers in and out of the Government see the current situation as less an op- portunity than a threat. They think the whole power base of the Saigon government is im- periled not by an enemy slash- ing down on the cities, as hap- pened last February, but by a more compliant adversary of- fering a war-weary America a way out through the Paris peace talks.

"We fear most what we desire — peace," an elderly Viet- namese intellectual, once a con- fidante of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, commented. "We fear peace because it will put us in an impossible situa- tion. Or maybe we have just be- come too used to war."

An undecided war that contin- ued at an impasse as it does now, the Vietnamese believe, could only benefit the Viet Cong and discredit the United States. They see the Tet offensive less as a massive bloodletting that killed 40,000 people in 10 days, than as the big battle, the attempted "new Dien Bien Phu" that crystallized Ameri- can distaste for the war. A senior Communist defector told his captors, "With the Tet offen- sive, you lost the war in 128 countries around the world. You do not understand political and psychological warfare. It does not matter to the Communists whether a battalion is beaten in the field or taken out by a polit- ical decision. They will wait now for the political decision."

Skating Schedule For Royce Park Limits Activity
A restricted skating schedule for the Royce Park rink was announced today by the City Recreation Dept.

Restrictions on skating were instituted because of crowded conditions on a skating surface smaller than usual because of the wide snowbanks.

Skaters were asked to con- fine activity to the following schedule:

Beginner and figure skaters, 6 to 7 p.m.; younger children, 7 to 8 p.m.; older boys, girls and adults, 8 to 9:30 p.m.

A WIDOW'S TRIBUTE. The American Nobel Prize winner's widow commissioned the work after seeing a Kenworthy exhibition in New York.

Robbery Nets Canceled Checks

BOSTON (AP)—Robbers who grabbed part of a bank truck cargo Monday dumped their loot after discovering it was only canceled checks, worthless although they once had a face value of $7 million.

The FBI confirmed today that the checks were not negotiable. Earlier, police in Revere, where the checks were found, had said they were told that millions of dollars worth of the checks were negotiable.

John Gould, public relations director of the Boston bank, said that three boxes of the checks had been placed in a bank truck for delivery to the Federal Reserve Bank just across the street.

The driver, identified as Vin- cent Birmingham, 53, Quincy,

Mitchell Favors Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP)—John N. Mitchell said today that if confirmed as attorney general he will make use of wiretapping and electronic surveillance in warring against crime.

Mitchell, a New York lawyer who managed President-elect Nixon's campaign, testified be- fore the Senate Judiciary Com- mittee.

The Crime Control and Safe Streets Act passed by Congress last year authorizes wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping by law enforcement officers to combat crime, but the Johnson administration has declined to make use of it.

Mitchell said he felt it should be used carefully and effective- ly under the safeguards provid- ed by Congress in order to cope with organized crime and major crimes.

In reply to other questions, Mitchell testified that he proposes to carry out the civil rights acts passed by Congress and to serve as a legal, rather than a political adviser to Nix- on.

He said that he hoped his ac- tivities of a political nature end- ed with the campaign in which Nixon won election.

At the outset of the hearing Mitchell was strongly endorsed by two senators at opposite ends of the political spectrum.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D- Miss., the committee chairman, told him "I think you are going to make a very fine attorney general and I'm going to vote for you."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., presenting Mitchell to the com- mittee, called him one of New York's most outstanding law- yers.

"President-elect Nixon really made an outstanding choice," Javits said.

The tire the experts asked for:

"Looking at our results, it is easy to see why radial ply tires are so appealing. But the more we look, the more we feel that all the advantages are a result of the belt, which stabilizes the tread, and not the radial plies themselves. In fact, the areas where the radial tires show signs of weakness can be related to the radial plies—not the belt. We can't help but think that a combination tire—a cross ply with a belt—would be an admirable solution."

'Thrill Killers' To Get Mental Tests

OTTAWA (AP)—Three Ontario men charged with non-capital murder in the death of a St. Clair Shores, Mich. man and his Canadian relative earlier this month, were ordered Monday to take psychiatric examinations.

The three, Donald Phillion, 29, and John Breault, 23, both of Ottawa, and David Dwyer, 23, Windsor, appeared for a hearing in Ottawa.

They were charged in the shooting deaths of Gerald MacD, 31, Ottawa, and Kenneth Vallee, 42, St. Clair Shores.

The two victims were flagged down by three men on an isolated stretch of highway near Ottawa. When the pair got out of their cars they were met by a hail of bullets, killing both.

The victim's wives were sitting in their cars when the incident occurred.

At the hearing, the three were remanded without plea until Jan. 20th, pending psychiatric examinations.

Crown attorney John Cassels said in court he expects the examinations to take place Wednesday.

Quacks Will Try To Sell Moon Mud

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Moon mud will be the next cure-all that quacks will try to peddle, predicts an official of a national health organization.

"The successful orbiting of the moon by an American spaceship will lead to the greatest spate of quacks ever," said Jerry Walsh, director of special services for the Arthritis Foundation and a member of the President's Commission on Hiring the Handicapped.

"Those door-bell doctors are sure going to try to sell moon mud," he said.

"When scientists began exploring the wonders of the ocean and President Kennedy made an issue of expanding research in oceanography, those jinx-men started selling salt water," he said.

"Ever since the government exploded atomic bombs in the wastelands of the west, the quacks have been selling gravel as cures."

"Now they'll move in on the moon," he predicted.

President Harry Truman constructed a horseshoe court on the White House lawn during his administration.

Council Defends Plowing Drives Of Key Officials

Should key city officials have their driveways plowed by city crews during a snow emergency?

Yes, City Council said last night as it defended criticism leveled at City Manager Robert Noe whose private driveway was cleared by city crews during the recent snowstorm.

No favoritism was intended, they said.

Harold Snellenburger, spokesman for a Schoolcraft Ave. trio including Edward Halvorsen and Jerome Halvorsen, said he had observed city equipment plowing Noe's private drive in the past few days and asked why one person should be singled out for favoritism.

Noe, speaking in his defense, said he was on 24-hour call and at the beck and call of every taxpayer, and frequently had to go out at all hours to check the situation during the recent snow emergency.

Consider Policy

"It is regrettable that I have had to call on the city crews to help me get out," Noe said, "but necessary in order to oversee the work crews, keep advised on what's going on and check road conditions."

He has had private contractors plow his driveway in the past, he said, but they were very busy last week and the city situation was critical—requiring his availability at any given moment.

Noe also revealed that he had asked city crews to plow city Street Superintendent Ray Linderoth's driveway to insure Linderoth's being able to leave whenever necessary.

Councilman Thor Reque suggested that some policy be established to provide city plowing services for key city personnel in any similar future situation. Reque also commended the department of public works and the city manager for their "excellent jobs under stress."

Voices Appreciation

In spite of numerous equipment breakdowns the city is making headway in tackling snow removal, Noe said.

City Mechanics have worked overtime in repairing machine failures, and hopefully most of the removal can be accomplished.

McLain Foresees Bad Hurlers' Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Denny McLain, 31-game winner for the Detroit Tigers, sees a tough season ahead for pitchers because pitching mounds are being reduced from 15 to 10 inches in height.

"Reducing the height of the mound will put an added strain on some pitchers," says McLain, the first hurler to win more than 30 major league games in 37 years.

"I don't think pitchers will be able to pitch 250 to 300 innings like a lot of us did last season," McLain worked 336 innings last year. Six others in the American League went 250 or more. In the National League, 14 hurlers worked 250 or more innings.

"Some pitchers will come up with sore arms because the five inches less on the mounds has got to hurt them," McLain added Monday when in town for the Sporting Goods Fair. "We will be losing five inches of momentum and that's a big difference."

Stram Praises Namath's Job

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Coach Hank Stram, whose West All-Stars face the seemingly impossible task of stopping Joe Namath in the American Football League All-Star game Sunday, paid tribute to the New York Jets quarterback Monday as practice opened.

"The Jets—every single one of them—believe in Joe," Stram said. "They know what he can do to an opponent. In man-to-man combat, Namath asks no favors and gives none."

The Kansas City Chiefs' coach said the Jets' victory over Baltimore in the Super Bowl is a real boost for the AFL.

It is also a shot in the arm to the league's All-Star game, in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl for the second straight year.

Analyzing Namath's success against the Colts, Stram said: "What makes Namath different from most pro quarterbacks is his speed of retreat into the pocket before passing. Most pro passers go back nine yards. Namath goes 12. That's a heck of a difference."

"The man still must have the man to put the pass where he wants it," Stram continued. "Namath has that."

Stram put the West All-Stars through a brief opening practice. Wally Lemm of Houston did the same with his East All-Stars.

The man of the hour, Namath, hadn't arrived yet and Lemm alternated assistant coaches at quarterback.

The coach was looking forward to having Namath on his side.

"He was just fantastic," Lemm said of the Super Bowl performance.

Hockey Scorers Near Milestone

MONTREAL (AP)—Like the four-minute milers who broke that mythical barrier a few years back, the first 100-point scoring hockey player in a National League season may make his appearance this year.

Bobby Hull, Chicago left-winger, leads the pack with 60 points, 30 goals and a like number of assists. Hull was declared winner of the $500 mid-season scoring leader award.

Phil Esposito of Boston who registered 18 points in the Bruins' last seven games as they surged into first place in the East Division, is breathing down Hull's neck with 59 points, 25 goals and 34 assists. Esposito received $250 as mid-season runner-up.

In third place among the top ten and well on the 100-point pace, is Gordie Howe of Detroit with 55 points, 19 goals and 36 assists.

If they remain free of injury, all three could pass the current record of 97 points in a season, held by Hull and his teammate, Stan Mikita. Mikita is staying with the scoring leaders and could become a fourth potential 100-point player. He's fourth among the top ten with 52 points, 16 goals and 36 assists.

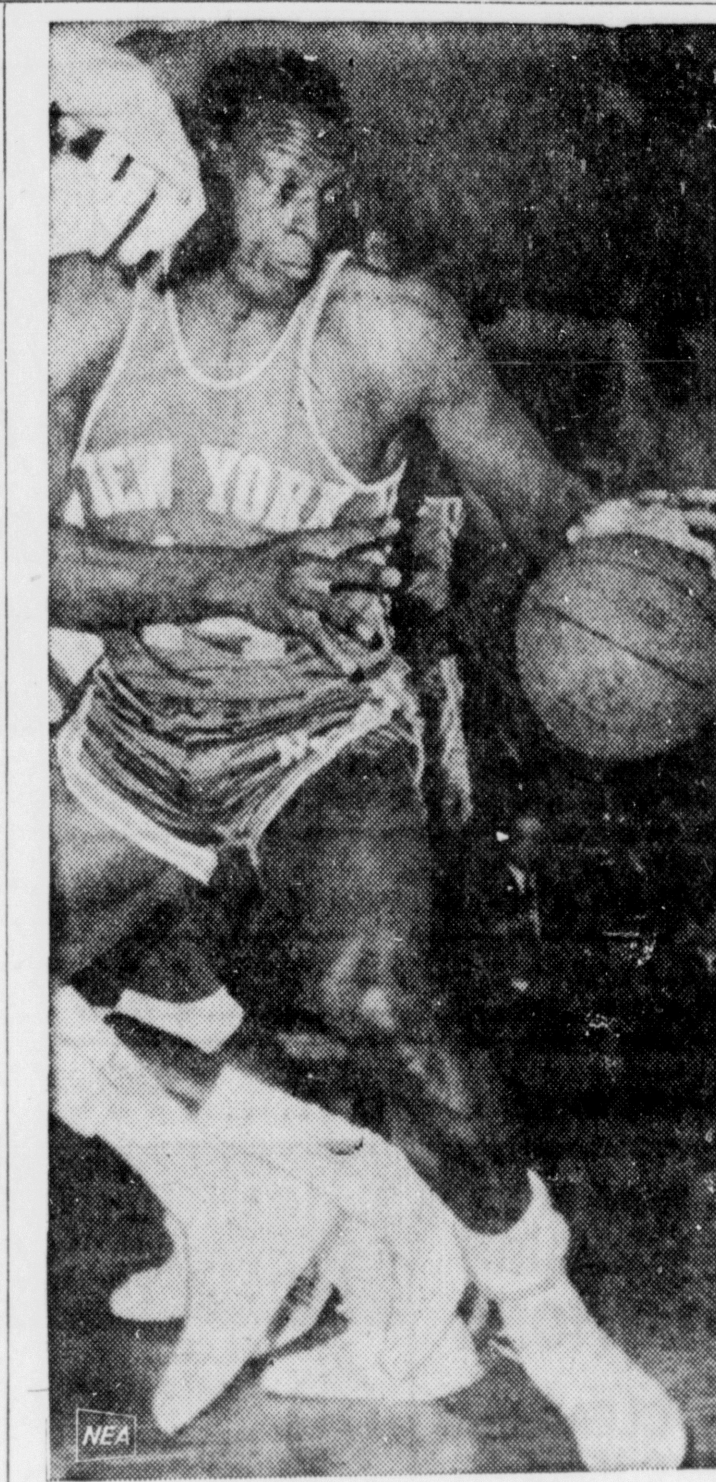

Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall, St. Louis goalies, were awarded the $250 mid-season award in the goal tending race. The two veterans share the lead in shutouts with five each and have a combined goals-against average of 2.00.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Yes, $200,000 a year is a lot of money, but it is only half as much as Sinatra got for four weeks in Vegas!"

CAZZIE RUSSELL, former University of Michigan cage star, now a member of the New York Knicks, is playing basketball in the NBA, says his biggest satisfaction in playing basketball is when he plays well. Being the star is not the biggest thing to him, but being victorious is. "The difference between now and my rookie year is experience and practice," claims Russell.

Rival All-Star Coaches No Strangers To Game

BALTIMORE (AP)—The rival coaches in tonight's National Basketball Association All-Star game are no strangers to the annual classic. Each appeared several times as a player.

Gene Shue of the host Baltimore Bullets will guide the East and Richie Guerin of Atlanta the West in the 19th renewal of the All-Star series that began in 1951.

The East won that first game, 111-94, and holds a 12-6 edge in the series, including last year's 144-124 victory behind Hall Greer's 21 points.

Shue and Guerin are making their first All-Star appearance as coaches, but Shue played in five of the games—scoring 66 points—and Guerin in six, scoring 63.

The West will be led by rookie star Elvin Hayes of San Diego, who sports a 30-point scoring average and beat out Wilt Chamberlain for the starting pivot spot. He'll be going against the dean of All-Star competition among active players, Boston's player-coach Bill Russell.

Starting with Hayes will be all three could pass the current record of 97 points in a season, held by Hull and his teammate, Stan Mikita. Mikita is staying with the scoring leaders and could become a fourth potential 100-point player. He's fourth among the top ten with 52 points, 16 goals and 36 assists.

Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall, St. Louis goalies, were awarded the $250 mid-season award in the goal tending race. The two veterans share the lead in shutouts with five each and have a combined goals-against average of 2.00.

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our bereavement. The death of our dear husband, father, brother, uncle and son-in-law, Frederick Lustick. We are especially grateful to the Rev. Robert Haas for his comforting words, to the pallbearers and the altar boys, to all who sent spiritual and floral bouquets and memorial donations also to the Skradski Funeral Home, to the ladies of St. Rita's Guild who donated and served food.
